

M&T Bank Helps Housing Groups Access $3.7 Million in Affordable Housing Grants

BUFFALO, N.Y.—Hundreds of low-income families in New York and Pennsylvania will get quality affordable housing thanks to eight grants totaling $3.7 million sponsored by M&T Bank through the Affordable Housing Program (AHP) of The Federal Home Loan Bank of New York.

Member-lenders of the Federal Home Loan Bank of New York, such as M&T Bank, sponsor local applications for projects designed to develop safe and affordable housing for seniors, special needs populations and low-to-moderate income neighborhoods. The AHP grants often allow not-for-profit organizations to access an additional funding source to complete capital projects.

“Safe and affordable housing is an important issue in all communities served by M&T Bank. Through our ongoing partnership with the Federal Home Loan Bank, we’re now able to provide resources to redevelop or rehab 327 apartments and houses so low-income families, seniors and individuals with disabilities have quality housing,” said JoAnne Schwartz, Community Reinvestment Act Officer for M&T Bank.

Grant funding sponsored by M&T Bank through the Federal Home Loan Bank will benefit the following community projects:

- A vacant school building in Yonkers, NY, will be redeveloped into two residential housing buildings by The Community Builders with a $1,368,796 grant. - Very low-income seniors in Syracuse, NY, will have access to 37 high-quality, affordable apartments thanks in part to a $270,000 grant. - Belmont Housing Resources for Western New York will receive a $130,000 grant to assist 10 homeowners with home improvement projects, as well as provide education and referral services, as part of the Promise Neighborhood Home Improvement Program in Buffalo, NY.
